

Leaves Fall

a divine blueprint
by Melissa Hill

This blueprint looks at your history, your growth, your gifts, and then examines what is ready to fall. This spread answers the question, "What can you let go of to better preserve the self? What happens to the leaves of self you've let fall?"

What roots me - The tree's roots. Where were you planted? Where did you grow? What is your connection to your past? To your personal, family, ancestral history? To the history of the Universe?

How I grew - The tree trunk. What summarizes your experience of growth? What describes your inner rings of growth? What is at your core? What is ingrained (as in, wood grain)?

What sustains - (two cards) The tree leaves. What do you use to sustain yourself in the present? As the leaves turn sunlight into energy, where do you find your source of energy? What have you used (a skill? a talent? a gift? a person?) to live in the way you do/are/have been?

What I've brought to fruition - The fruit of the tree. What has come into being as a result of what sustains? What is your highest potential for growth? What is the ultimate gift you cultivate? Is it sweet? Bitter? Useful? Poisonous?

What falls - The falling leaf. What is the part of self you need to let go of? Which part of self no longer serves? In order to survive another season, what must be shed?

Where it rests - The fallen leaf. What is your experience as you let go? Where do you move away from? What grows from your transition? How do you cope with what's left behind?
